

Company Profile

From its small start in downtown Columbus in 1912 Arthur Loeb started this company with the intent of making service his hallmark, and it's no different today. Why? Because that's what our clients value.

Whether it's advice on new technologies that solve problems or how to get a product at 3 in the morning, Loeb Electric provides a package of services designed to get projects done quicker and smarter. The labor savings, energy savings and reduced overhead expenses you realize when you buy from Loeb Electric is what sets us apart. That type of thinking is why some of the largest retailers in the world choose to do business with us. And it's why many contractors, schools and government agencies do business with us as well. Our customers have learned that they can count on Loeb Electric when they need to get their job done.
